ON THE RIVER BANK. Mer Little Bog Helle Lay On Her Breast When Its Whining Attracted Two Boys to the Spot Her Beath Due to a Fall. Mrs. Emma Elstermann, 51 years old, the wife of Richard Eistermann, a tailor, who lives street, was found dead yesterday morning just beneath a point of rocks on the bank of the East River near the foot of Neventy-seventh street.

A gesh in the scalp extended from the right

The body was found by two boys, Lawrence leim of 421 East Eighty-first street and Luke McDermott of 205 East Seventy-sixth atreet. While the boys were playing near the river their attention was attracted by the mournful whining of a dog, a curly coated little Skye terrier, which the boys could see under the ledge of rocks only a few feet away. Approach-It was lying on the breast of a woman, whose face it was licking. The woman lay on her back with her face toward the rock, almost under the ledge.

At first the boys thought that the woman was drunk, and they were about to arouse her, when young McDermott, uttering a cry, called his playate's attention to the wound in the woman's head. Both boys ran up Seventy-seventh street a woman murdered under the rocks!"

All the children followed the boys, and the

All the children followed the boys, and the whole crowd shortly ran across Policeman John J. Herger of the East Sixty-seventh street station, who was about a block away.

The two boys told Berger their story, and he went to the place they indicated. When Berger reached the spot the terrier was still there, keeping his faithful vigil, and still whining. The policeman's examination disclosed very little blood, except immediately about the wound. One of the children who had followed Herger knew the woman, and Herger hastened to the house to notify her husband.

Elstermann, who is perhaps five years older than his wife, was found at work in his little tailor shop. When he heard Berger's story he was amost beside himself with grief. After a time he went with the policeman to where the body of his wife lay and identified it. It was some time before the man could assure himself that his wife was dead. He repeatedly called her by name, and, taking her by the hands, said lovingly:

"Come, Emma, get up. I'll help you."

her by name, and, taking her by the hands, said lovinsly:

"Come, Emma, get up. I'll help you,"

Berger reported the case to the East Sixtyseventh street station, and an investication was ordered. The police, on learning all they could about the woman and how she happened to be in the vicinity of the place where she was found, reported the case to the Coroner's office as one of accidental death.

Elstermann said yesterday afternoon that his wife had left the house about 10 o'clock in the morning for a walk, taking her net dog Belle with her. He said that his wife had long been a sufferer from heart trouble and frequently had been affected by dizziness. He believes that sile mast have had one of these attacks about the time she reached the rocks and fallen over.
There is no evidence that the woman was a victim of foul play, but the police think it strange that so deen a scalp wound could nave been inflicted by a fall of only about six feet.

Elstermann and his wife came to this country from Berlin twenty-seven years ago. They meyer had any children, and in all the thirty.

Elstermann and his wife came to this country from Berlin twenty-seven years ago. They never had any children, and in all the thirty-three years of their married life they had never been separated. Elstermann taught his wife his trade, and she always worked with him. The counie were thrifty, and it is said in the neighborhood that they had accumulated a very substantial fortune.

were to have been married three weeks ago. Ring induced her to agree to a postponement, and afterward managed to get nearly $100 of her savings. He neglected her and on Wednesday night she called upon him and demanded an explanation.

He told her that he never intended to marry her and that she might as well look for a husband somewhere eise. When the girl threatened to poison herself in his presence he told her to go ahead. She went into the hall, where she mixed Paris green in a glass of water and drank it. Her groans brought neighbors, and she was taken to St. Catharine's Hospital, where she refused to tell why she took the poison.

She was sufficiently recovered to be taken to the Ewen Street Police Court yesterday, where a policeman chargod her with attempted suicide. Justice Laimbeer questioned her, but she simply shook her head. She refused to speak. When she was put into the prisoners pen she oried and said she wanted to die. Afterward she told why she attempted to kill herself, She became so ill again that she was taken Lack to the hospital.

SUED BY HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW.

She Was Weber's Housekeeper After Her Daughter Died-He Married Again.

PLAINFIELD, Oct. 3.- Ex-Councilman Herman A. Weber of the Fourth ward is being sued in the Union County Groutt Court by his mother-iu-law. Mary E. Whitehead, for the sum of $1,500, which she claims he owes for wages as housekeeper. In 1800 Mr. Weber's wife died, leaving him with a baby child. After a time his mother-in- aw came to keep house for him and mother-in-aw came to keep house for him and care for the baby, he agreeing to furnish her with a home during the remaining days of her life as recompense for such services, but last signig the ex-Councilman took another wife, who immediately assumed charge of the household, thus relieving the mother-in-law of authority. This was not satisfactory to Mrs. Whitehead, and though she had a room and all the other privileges of the household still, she left in March of this year, claiming that she was not greated well and that her son-in-law had broken his agreement. Her suit was for five years services.

He says it will be of infinite satisfaction to the whole country that the movement begun in 1886 to obliterate the divisions, remove the bitterness, and heal the striff existing in Utah, which have so long prevented its admission as a State, is at out to be consummated in the entrance of Utah into the Union as a great and prosperous State.

The Tennessee Coal, Iron, and Railroad Company has sold to a syndicate represented by Messrs. Moore & Schley $440,000 of the consolidated mortgage of ecent, bonds of the De Hardeleben Company, which were acquired by the first-named company when it acquired control of the De Hardeleben Company. It is understood that the price received for the bonds is 95, and the proceeds will be applied to taking up the floating debt of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company. By this operation all of the floating debt of the company, except that incidental to the transaction of its current business, is funded. It is current talk in the augar trade that the American Refining Company is not as herge a holder of raw sugars as has generally been supposed, and that recent advances in its prices for refined have not resulted in unusual profits, but have been made to preserve, as far as possible, the usual manufacturers' margin between raw and finished products. These circumstances doubtless account for the evident indisposition of se-called insiders to trade in the stock. Although the trading in Sugar Refining was more extensive than in any other atock it was not as prominent a feature of the market as Chicago Gas o. The opportunity offered during September to holders of receipts of the Adams Reorganization Committee of the Northern Pacific Railiroad Company to withdraw their bonds from the custody of the committee was availed of by holders of approximately $150,000 bonds, out of ever $38,000,000 of all classes deposited. The smaliness of these withdrawals indicates that, in spite of the receivership complications growing out of the conflict as to jurisdiction between Judges Jenkins and Hanford, the bondholders are virtually unanimous in holding together for protection. It was suggested to-day that the appointment of only one receiver by Judge Hanford would seem to Indicate that he left an opportunity open for a harmonious settlement of the conflict in the courts, by the Eastern courts accepting his appointee as a third receiver and his acceptance of their appointments in addition to his own.
